The European Cultural Centre and Tora and Art Foundation present Entre nous, a joint exhibition exploring the complex and fascinating territory of relationships between men and women.

Entre nous — “Between Us.” These words evoke intimacy and distance, trust and secrecy, and the elusive space that emerges between two people, two gazes, two ways of seeing the world.

Do we truly see another person, or merely our own idea of them? How much of our desire is shaped by memory, culture, and the images that surround us?

Through painting and photography, Marusya Borisova-Sevastyanova and Alexey Kostromin offer two independent artistic perspectives. They are not a couple, nor do their works emerge from a shared romantic history. Their dialogue is instead an encounter between two distinct artistic worlds.

Sensual, expressive, and visually intense, their works invite us to experience art beyond interpretation. Echoing Susan Sontag’s aesthetic thinking, Entre nous encourages us to feel rather than explain, allowing images to seduce, unsettle, and provoke recognition.

Here, the masculine and feminine are neither fixed identities nor opposing forces, but perspectives through which we explore attraction, expectations, intimacy, and individuality.

Presented in Paris during Art Basel Paris, Entre nous invites viewers into an open dialogue without definitive answers — a reflection on everything that remains unspoken, unpredictable, and profoundly human in the space between us.
